

Ted A. Almay
Global Chief Security Officer
Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited

Ted Almay is the Global Chief Security Officer for Deloitte and is responsible for physical security, business continuity and disaster/pandemic planning, crisis management, travel security, corporate investigations and other key security programs for all Deloitte employees worldwide. He also has responsibility for the Workplace Services program including expense compliance matters, policy and records management, meeting planning and events, the One Team office experience and administrative support. His team consists of over 2800 professionals around the world and an operating budget of over $245 million dollars. He also provides security consulting services to Deloitte clients. Ted joined the Firm in September of 2007.

Prior to joining Deloitte, he was the Assistant Vice President of Security for USAA in San Antonio, Texas including their global operations and served as the Director of Security for American Electric Power (AEP) in Columbus, Ohio including their nuclear and international locations.

Ted served over 20 years in the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation, retiring as the Superintendent with responsibility for the state DNA and crime labs, criminal history records and investigative operations. His career began in undercover narcotics with assignments in the violent crime division, organized crime and public corruption units. He has testified before the US Senate and House of Representatives and chaired several national law enforcement committees.

He was a field artillery officer in the United States Army and holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Dayton. He resides near Raleigh, North Carolina.